36 ASSESSMENT BOOKS READY TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Clerk R. E. Deardorff Completes Work Preparatory To Triennial Levy.

R. E. Deardorff, clerk to the Adams county commissioners, today completed preparing the 36 books for the 1927 triennial assessment.

While the books for the compiling of the assessment figures are not to be distributed officially until September 8, when registry-assessors make their returns of the September registration for the general election, some of them will be given out before then.

Along with the triennial assessment on real and personal property and occupations for the purposes of county taxation, the registry-assessors will again take the triennial farm census in Adams county for the state department of agriculture. This census was first taken three years ago.

Schedule Is Arranged
For the purpose of having uniformity in assessing occupations this year, the commissioners have directed that the following schedule be followed by the assessors:

Invalids and indigents, $10; retired persons and housewives, $50; all single freemen who do not follow any occupation, $80; laborers, $80; store clerks, etc., $100; office workers, including persons working in banks, school teachers, railroad brakemen, station agents, tradesmen of all kinds, salesmen, brokers, preachers, battle-field guides and state employees, $150; county officials, state officials, railroad engineers, railroad conductors, bankers, professional men, college and seminary professors, $200; manufacturers, merchants, contractors, hotel proprietors, theater proprietors, $300.

General Registration
The registry-assessors will sit at their respective polling places September 6 and 7 to register voters for the general election in November. Last month the registers sat to enroll voters for the September primary.

In the farm census, books for which are furnished by the department of agriculture, the registry-assessors will list the number of persons living on farms, the number of acres in each farm over three acres, the crops harvested in 1927, the number of fruit trees, livestock, chickens and bees, equipment, conveniences and services. The registry-assessors are being informed that the assessment books should be returned to the office of the county commissioners not later than November 1.

EARLY PEACHES READY FOR SALE

Elberta and Hale Varieties Ready For Retail Trade During Week of August 29.

The early ripening varieties of Pennsylvania peaches are now available at many retail markets and roadside stands, according to the State Bureau of Markets. The Elberta and Hale varieties from Franklin, Adams, York, Cumberland and Berks counties will be available during the week of August 29. However, the greater portion of the crop will be marketed after the first of September.

The peaches now moving to market are reported of excellent quality. The crop is estimated to be 932,000 bushels, which is only about one-third of normal, and about 1,600,000 less than last year's heavy crop. The average crop of the past five years has been 1,656,000 bushels.

During the peach marketing, most of the carlot shipments from Franklin, Adams, Cumberland, York and Berks counties will be packed according to the new standard peach grades which were adopted on July 1, and inspected by representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Consumers will find the "U. S. No. 1" grade generally satisfactory as such fruit must be sound, clean, well formed, and mature but not overripe. If buyers want to be sure of securing fruit of bright color for the variety, they should endeavor to purchase the "U. S. Fancy" grade. In either case, consumers can be assured that the fruit will be the same grade from the top to the bottom of the container.

CORN IS SCARCE ON LOCAL CURB

Tomatoes Are Plentiful; Eggs Sell For 35 Cents a Dozen; Variety of Berries on Sale.

Sweet corn played hide-and-seek with prospective purchasers at curb market again this morning. When customers believed they were on the trail of some of the scarce, succulent delicacy, they found they had been chasing a vegetable mirage.

Corn was scarce in the broadest meaning of the word, and sold at 35 cents a dozen. Only a few early customers and those who had engaged were accommodated with corn today.

Tomatoes were plentiful and sold at 10 cents a basket. Blackberries held forth at 20 cents a box; huckleberries, 25 cents a box; elderberries, 10 cents a box off the stem; string beans, 10 cents a dozen; butter, 45 and 50 cents a pound; soup beans, 25 cents a quart; pears, $1 a basket; spring chickens, 30 cents a pound; potatoes, $1.50 to $1.75 a bushel; apples, $1.50 to $1.75 a bushel; peaches, $3 a bushel.

There was the usual run of red beets, carrots, cucumbers, cauliflower and onions, with prices firm.

SNAKE IS GUEST IN ADAMS HOME

For several days last week Mrs. Howard Fickel, Latimore township, had an unwelcome guest in her house that was more dangerous than a stick of dynamite. While at work around her kitchen she heard a noise as if something were moving around, but could not locate what it was until Friday when she saw a three-foot copperhead snake gliding across the floor. The snake was killed by some of the members of the family.

"Pat" Almost Sat

George "Pat" Rosensteel, Gettysburg battlefield guide, doesn't care to come any nearer being bitten by a snake than he was Friday.

"Pat", as his fellow-guides know him best, was about to sit upon a rock on Little Round Top when A. H. Shields, another guide, spied a copperhead snake curled upon the rock, unbeknown to Rosensteel.

"Don't sit down," Shields shouted to Rosensteel, and the latter straightened up immediately. Turning around, he saw the large copperhead coiled upon the rock, apparently asleep.

With presence of mind, "Pat" seized a stone and hit the snake, breaking its back. It was then finally dispatched with a stout club.

SILK PLANT TO OPERATE ON FULL SCHEDULE, JONES

Day And Night Shifts Put Into Effect Again; Expect Continuous Run.

Orders from the parent plant at Shamokin for "full speed ahead" sent all of the 275 machines at the local branch of the C. K. Eagle and Company, Incorporated, silk mill, into motion Friday on what promises to be a long run of unprecedented activity.

Arthur R. Jones, manager of the local silk throwing plant, was in Shamokin today, but R. E. Berkeheimer, assistant manager, explained that as soon as additional help could be secured every machine would be operating at capacity.

He said the local branch has been working day and night for five weeks, but that it was only Friday that orders were received to run every machine in the place in order to secure the greatest possible production of silk.

Day and Night Shifts
The local company winds, spins and twists silk for use in the manufacture of silk products at the Shamokin and other plants of the Eagle concern.

Beginning Monday morning at 7 o'clock, the local silk throwing plant will run continuously twenty-four hours a day until Saturday noon. Indications are that the boom in the silk industry will be of long duration, and afford employment for competent men and women of Gettysburg and vicinity throughout the winter.

The wage scale for experienced men and women workers at the silk mill compares favorably with that of other local industries, it was stated.

August Issue Of "Motorist" For Gettysburg

"Gettysburg Number" is the title of the August issue, recently released from the presses of The Pennsylvania Motorist, official publication of the Pittsburgh motor club. The cover design of the magazine is the official map of the 25,000-acre battlefield.

The two center pages of the magazine contain group photos of various battlefields views. The caption extending across the top of the two center pages reads as follows: "Gettysburg . . . The Nation's Greatest Shrine." The cut-lines for the photos read as follows: "A few of the jewels in Gettysburg's crown of glory. Approaching Round Top Summit. Minnesota and Pennsylvania Memorials. The Devil's Den. Approach to Spangler's Spring. National monument in Cemetery. New York Wheat Field." In the upper right hand corner is a photo of the equestrian statue of General Buford, while in the upper left hand corner is a picture of the Hotel Gettysburg. Around the group photos has been wound a descriptive and colorful article about Gettysburg and the battlefield.

In addition to the Gettysburg display, one of the leading articles in the issue is entitled, "Pennsylvania's Virgin forest," with illustrations from "Cook Forest Primeval, Pennsylvania's Wonderland."

The cover is printed in blue ink, while the words, in large type and extending across the page, "Gettysburg Number" is printed in red ink.

The circulation of the magazine is reputed to be more than 5,000 in the city of Pittsburgh alone, in addition to a wide circulation throughout the state.

The literature and photos in the issue were prepared and secured by the Public Relations department of the Hotel Gettysburg.

100,000 WORDS IN CARAVAN STORIES

Interesting and Attractive Display of Clippings in Window of Weaver's Store.

An interesting and attractive display of newspaper and magazine clippings, containing approximately 100,000 words, telling of the International Motorcade from Atlanta, Georgia, to Quebec, Canada, scheduled to pass through Gettysburg, September 9, was set up in a background of American flags in one of the windows of G. W. Weaver and Son's store, Center Square, Friday afternoon.

It is pointed out by persons interested in the motorcade that none of the publicity, which was gleaned from magazines and newspapers from New Orleans, Louisiana, to Quebec, was part of the vast quantity of news stories and pictures sent out from Asheville, North Carolina, headquarters of the Appalachian Scenic Highway, over which the motorcade will travel, indicating that editors considered the motorcade of sufficient interest in their respective communities to designate one of their own writers to write strictly local stories, instead of using the publicity material from the highway headquarters.

62 Columns of Type
None of the displayed clippings were taken from The Gettysburg Times which has used frequent stories of the forthcoming motor caravan. Notwithstanding the bulk of clippings which might have been used in the display, the layout contains 3,456 square inches of printed matter, or the equivalent of 1,296 newspaper column inches, equal to 62 columns of type.

Various cards in the window tell of the display, the value of the advertising Gettysburg has received from the motorcade and other information about the arrival of the motor caravan.

Unofficial Message Caught

Honolulu, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The signal corps at Luke Field today intercepted two messages said to be from an unidentified vessel saying that the missing plane "Golden Eagle" had been found. The messages were partly undecipherable. The signal corps has no idea whether the messages are authentic.

Ships Rush To Rescue

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Ships at sea were rushing today to a spot 500 miles west from San Francisco where the Dallas Spirit last night sent out an SOS call after it had gone into two successive tail spins.

The radio of the Dallas Spirit which left Oakland at 2:15 p. m. yesterday to search for the missing Dole fliers was silenced after the frantic distressed calls and was believed to have fallen into the sea.

The U. S. destroyers Lavalatte and Sumner were believed to be the vessels nearest the Dallas Spirit. The Lavalatte and the Sumner were reported 108 miles east of the airplane's last known position.

The destroyers Hazelwood, Meyers and the aircraft tender Langley were hurrying to the rescue.

The tanker Frank G. Drum was reported 230 miles from the spot and proceeding at full speed.

The steamer Pleydon moved under forced draught to reach the plane's position and expected to get there at 11 o'clock this morning.

The Pleydon headed for the position in which it was estimated the plane was when last heard from, basing the speed of the plane at 83 nautical miles an hour.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—(AP)—At 9:05 p. m. Friday night the Dallas Spirit, flying between Oakland and Honolulu, flashed an SOS call and said the plane was in a tail spin. The radio then discontinued operation.

The message said: "9:02 p. m. We went into a tail spin—SOS—relax that—we came out of it, but were sure scared. It was a close call. We thought it was all off, but we came out of it. The lights on the instrument board went out and it was so dark that Bill couldn't see the—we are in a spin—SOS."

The last position of the plane was at 6:40 p. m., when it was stated that the Dallas Spirit was 450 nautical miles from San Francisco. At 8 o'clock the plane reported all O. K.

Although the last of the message said "SOS" radio experts pointed out that there was a possibility that the Dallas Spirit might still be in the air, having snapped out of the tail spin within a short distance from the water. As the dropping radio antenna was 250 feet in length it would go out as soon as it touched water.

The plane was 592 nautical miles from San Francisco when the message was sent.

Phoebe is Dead

Phoebe is dead.

Phoebe died of poisoning, presumably from weeds and grass fed to her by youngsters who gleefully admired and longed to feed her, as she scampered about her coop.

Phoebe is "Charley" Ziegler's pet white goat. It is the second goat "Charley" has lost within three months. The first one was jet black, while Phoebe was pure white, plump and full of pep, and only four months old, too.

Phoebe had been penned up in a chicken coop for about eight weeks, and seemed well on the road to gaining full growth—but her life was doomed to be short. Several days ago Phoebe contracted poisoning of some sort. "Charley" administered medicine of various kinds, but to no avail. Thursday evening, "Charley's" goat, "Phoebe", pet of Race Horse alley, died.

There will be no funeral services.

STOLEN PLANS OF NAVY RECOVERED
24-Year-Old Marine Architect Confesses Theft and Drawings Are Found in Rocks.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—A book of plans, containing complete specifications for construction of the United States Navy's latest and most powerful scout cruisers, was recovered Friday by Department of Justice agents from a cairn of rocks at the rear of the Municipal Art Museum, following the confession of a 24-year-old marine architect, who had pilfered them from the shipyard at Newport News.

The man who stole them is Sven Ban Berg, a Dane, and a highly trained naval architect, who was employed by a local shipbuilding concern.

Berg was held in $50,000 bail for a further hearing on August 31 before United States Commissioner Howard Long. He was represented by William A. Hoagland, a member of the Philadelphia bar and Swedish Consul in Philadelphia.

Threatened To Sell Plans
The recovery of the specifications, after the chief of the bureau of construction and repairs of the United States Navy Department had received a letter from Berg threatening to sell the plans to "the representatives of a foreign power" unless the government paid an extortionate price for their return, was a triumph for Department of Justice agents.

The discovery that the plans had disappeared from the Newport News shipyard, where the cruisers, designated as Nos. 30 and 31, are being constructed, surrounded by the utmost secrecy, was made about July 31.

PLEDGES MADE TO MOTORCADE FUND
Committee Receives Some Contributions To $800 Fund For Gettysburg Reception.

Although the committee, appointed to raise $800 to finance the Gettysburg reception to the International Motorcade here September 9 has not started active soliciting, it was announced by a member of the committee today that some pledges had been received, without solicitation. It is not known how much has been pledged thus far.

This announcement lends assurance to the prediction by several committeemen, that the $800 will be secured without difficulty, as soon as the committee starts active work.

Roy P. Funkhouser, chairman of the committee, with I. L. Taylor of the Gettysburg National bank and E. W. Thomas of the First National bank as members, announced a luncheon meeting of the committee at the Hoffman hotel Monday noon, at which time a definite announcement as to methods of raising the money will be made.

Enthusiasm Aroused
Considerable enthusiasm has been aroused in Gettysburg over the approaching reception. Many business men look upon the project as one of the best means of publicizing Gettysburg and the battlefield shrine.

Henry Berliner's announcement that an aerial escort would participate in the reception has stirred officials of the motorcade, who were acquainted with this feature of the Gettysburg reception by wire on Friday. It was announced that Gettysburg is the only town to announce such a tribute to the party of distinguished Southerners who will be Gettysburg's guest for several hours next month.

In addition to offering an aerial escort Mr. Berliner contributed $25 to the fund and offered to give a free ride to any Gettysburgian who contributed $20 or more to the reception fund.

Houses Slip Off Their Foundations
Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Seven families are homeless and several persons injured as a result of an earthquake scare early Friday when a block of seven dwellings under one roof on Rosemont avenue were partially destroyed. The accident is said to have been caused by the houses slipping off their foundations.

Occupants of the dwellings were thrown into a state of panic when the entire seven buildings began to quiver and sway dangerously from side to side. For a time it was feared that the structure would collapse but the trembling stopped only after the building had sunk into the ground to a depth of at least six inches. Three of the occupants were taken to the City hospital.

Badger Bachelors Open War On Women
Stanley, Wis., Aug. 20.—Bachelors of Stanley have declared war on "women." An organization has been tentatively effected for "mutual protection from devices now used by the fair sex to entangle single men into matrimonial alliances." A meeting today will perfect the plan.

The allurements of bobbed hair and silk stockings, organizers assert, necessitates such an organization. A picnic will be the bachelors' first social function and no women will be invited.

Personal Friend Of "Lindy" Is Killed
St. Louis, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Lieut. George Stumpf, with the 35th Division, air corps, here was killed and Lieut. C. Z. Hutchinson, pilot, was seriously injured when their airplane crashed 20 miles south of here today. Stumpf who was a personal friend of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and who assisted the noted flier in last minute preparations before he hopped off on his New York to Paris flight was a passenger in the plane. Stumpf and Hutchinson were stunting over a park and witnesses said the plane was flying so low that one of the wings struck a flag pole.

LAUDS SPIRIT OF "EDDIE" PLANK
Director of Physical Education Comments on Memorial Gymnasium at Local College.

Eddie Plank's spirit goes marching on. The Gettysburg Gatling still serves the college he made famous as student and alumnus. Gettysburg college used to have the smallest gymnasium in the world, and now by virtue of the memory of Plank it has one of the largest and the best.

When C. E. Bilheimer, director of physical education, was in Philadelphia last week to consider bids on five hundred lockers for the new Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium, he remarked with pride on the number of lockers he could now install. "We had some wooden antiques in the old building," said Bilheimer. "Not more than enough for a couple of football teams and then the subs had to double in with the regulars. Now we can care for all the boys in school who want to take part in athletics."

"And then Eddie Plank has also given us a real room for assembly purposes and for our college plays and our basketball games. Here is a case of a great athlete whose work for his school and for the boys of future generations goes on and on. He helps them after death even as his living spirit and courage helped them when he held forth in the struggles of baseball and as a good citizen and friend. For the first time in its history his old school can care for all who want to take part in sport and take care of them in as fine shape as any school. He would be proud and glad of that."

The Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium was dedicated last June. The Athletics and Phillies will play a ball game next October 3, the proceeds from which are to go to the building fund of the gymnasium.

STOCK REPORT

2 OFFICERS ARE KILLED IN W. VA.
Bluecoats Stage Gun Battle on Main Street in Williamson; Survivors Arrested.

Williamson, W. Va., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two factions of the Williamson police force met in the street early Friday and a gun battle ensued, during which two officers were killed.

D. W. Deerfield and Harvey McGuire were the victims of the shooting. Julius Lawson and James Kirkpatrick surrendered to county authorities and were placed in jail.

Strife in the police department had existed for some time. One force claimed to be the "regulars," while the others were known as the "deposed" officers. The latter, however, continued to function.

Quarrel Over Milk Truck
The gun battle occurred on a main street, in front of the office of the Daily News, and was witnessed by Charles Edwards, a newspaper reporter, and Asa Savage, a garage man. They said Deerfield and McGuire approached a milk truck standing without lights in front of the newspaper office and were about to "tag" it for violation of an ordinance when Lawson and Kirkpatrick appeared. The latter two questioned the authority of the "deposed" officers to tag the truck and gun play quickly followed.

Williamson, a Southern West Virginia town of 6,800 population, has had two police forces, one appointed and sponsored by Mayor W. F. Hatfield and the other named last June by a resolution of other members of City Council.

SACCO COUNSEL IS TWICE BALKED
Federal Justice Refuses to Grant Latest Writ; Condemned Men in Death House.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti found themselves balked today in their latest efforts to save the two men from going to the electric chair after midnight next Monday night.

Justice Morton, of the federal district court, refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus or a stay of execution and the office of the clerk of the United States supreme court at Washington refused to permit the filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari until full copies of the record of the case had been received.

Arthur D. Hill, chief defense counsel, forwarded part of the record at once and arranged to send the rest later in the day. Then he went to Beverly Farms to ask Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court for a stay of execution. He also sent a letter to Governor Fuller asking for another respite.

Miss Luigia Vanzetti who has come from Italy to see her brother had an hour's interview with him at the state prison today. Both showed great emotion.

Coolidge To Visit Yellowstone Park
Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 20.—(AP)—President Coolidge has yielded to the lure of Yellowstone Park and will journey there next week, leaving the Black Hills probably on Sunday night.

Only the bare announcement that he intended going to the park was made at the executive offices here Friday, but it is understood Mr. Coolidge expects to get to the park about noon Monday and spend perhaps a week there.

Mrs. Coolidge and John Coolidge, who came here early in the week from summer school, will accompany the president. In fact it is understood they played a large part in influencing his decision to visit America's wonder scenic park.

The president anticipates he will be on the move most of the time during his visit and no headquarters have been arranged for the party. An expression used at the summer White House Friday that the president expects to be "on the hoof" during the journey led some to believe he may resort to horseback travel some of the time.

ORDERS COLLEGE TO ADMIT STUDENT
Girl Dismissed by Syracuse University Without Explanation Reinstated by Court.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Supreme Court Justice Smith Friday handed down a decision ordering Syracuse university to reinstate Miss Beatrice O. Anthony, of Binghamton, to her class and to pay the cost of a suit the girl started against the university when she was dismissed from the institution with no explanation.

Judge Smith's decision declared no institution of learning has the right to dismiss a student without stating cause and that such a dismissal "impairs the reputation of an individual."

Dr. William P. Graham, vice chancellor of the university, said Miss Anthony would be "allowed" to resume her studies this fall. He added that the university "was very glad to have a definite ruling from the court on the points involved."

Miss Anthony, 21, and the daughter of John J. Anthony, of Binghamton, was asked after the decision whether she would return to the university.

"I will have to talk that over with my parents," she answered.

Miss Anthony entered Syracuse university in September, 1923, enrolling in the domestic science course, from which she would have been graduated in 1927. Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, is dean of the college.

In September, 1926, Miss Anthony enrolled for that year and paid her tuition. She signed a registration card agreeing to abide by the rules of the institution.

October 6, 1926, she was dismissed by Dr. Ivo L. Peters, dean of women, who formerly was on the faculty of Goucher college, in Baltimore.

Miss Anthony said the university officials refused to give any explanation for their act, which caused an illness and made it necessary to spend a week in the college infirmary before returning to her home. A short time later Miss Anthony entered suit against the university, demanding reinstatement and the reason of her dismissal.

31-Letter Town Sees Mayor "Jimmy" Walker
Llanfairpwllgelygllantysiliohgh, Wales, Aug. 20.—This little town had the honor yesterday of seeing New York's mayor. His train stopped just long enough to give Mayor Walker and his party a glimpse of Mount Waen-Fawr, where Marconi made his radio experiments.

It also gave the mayor and his party an opportunity to try to pronounce the town's name, which none of them could.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America from Kilmall, Ireland, following Emmett Murtough, to whom Sheila is betrothed. Neither of the men will hold steady jobs in New York City, Murtough becoming a truck driver for a band of bootleggers. Sheila makes friends with the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer, whose kindness interests her. Murtough is involved with Clarice Clancey, a cabaret girl. At the night club she is approached by a mysterious man who wants to know Murtough.

"Who's the other one?" asked the thin leader.

"Don't know him. Think I've seen him around, but all these guys look alike today, the ones that wear their hair slick. He seems familiar, but I can't place him."

"Do you think this girl will come through?"

"Maybe, he's not wise enough to be suspicious, and if we can line him up we'll take Manie Clocker for plenty. That ship he's got on the way in has got a hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of uncut stuff if it's not a drop. And it's stuff we can cut three times and it'll still be good!"

The music stopped and the conversation among the three was silenced. Leisurely they paid their accounts and bidding farewell to Clarice and Clancey they passed out into the street. The three parted quickly in front of the door and each hailed a different taxi-cab, though all gave the same address, a very quiet and orderly family hotel downtown.

"He won, mother, he won!"

CHAPTER IX

Rory O'Shea's Battle.

Mrs. O'Shea herself climbed the three flights of stairs that led to the Kildare apartment to invite Sheila and Old Tom down to hear announcement, round by round, of the fight between the Garden over the radio. Old Tom demurred at first, as he still was ashamed of quitting his job with Tim O'Shea, but the novelty of radio tempted him. They were the only guests. The other children of the O'Sheas all owned homes and radio equipment of their own. Not only that, but jobs to go to early in the morning. They couldn't afford to be wasting their sleeping hours by visiting the old folks in the midweek. At least, so old Mrs. O'Shea assured Sheila.

Michael O'Shea censured the reception. He experimented with one station after another, catching a marvelous concert by one of the most popular jazz orchestras, or by reference to the daily program he would manage to capture a program of old-fashioned songs of which Kathie, his wife, was so fond. But he kept his ear on the station broadcasting from the Garden that night, and when the preliminary bouts were uninteresting he shut them off pre-emptorily. So carefully did he time his return to the Garden station that they caught even the few introductions of other lightweights which immediately preceded the O'Shea-Campeau bout.

The eyes of the proud mother and father lighted when the announcement came that their Rory had entered the ring. The cheers for O'Shea that swept the huge hall brought an electric tingle to the cheeks of Sheila. Here was a hero! Campeau's reception was not so sweeping for the French had not yet won the hearts of the fans. Too few had seen him in action to have become true hero worshippers.

The preliminaries to the bout were short. The management was anxious to get on to the Brown-Mallory go. The managers of the heavyweight fighters had already warned the promoter repeatedly not to occasion any unnecessary delay no matter how popular the rest of the card proved to be with the crowd.

The first and second rounds were without much interest. The men had fought each other before and they were wary of the pitfalls which they knew existed. Toward the end of the second the "boo" chorus began, but it was short lived. There was a sharp exchange, too, to see, just as the bell rang and the warmed up fans applauded.

"Take him Rory, take him!" "Carry the fight to the frog!" "Go on Campeau!" "Mix it up, mix it up!"

The bell for the third round quieted the audience. Campeau and O'Shea opened up now. Rory to his own satisfaction had found that the two previous rounds had left him hardly with a sweat. He sprang from his chair to meet Campeau near the latter's own corner.

Returned confidence made Rory the aggressor and he carried the fight to his rival. But Campeau remained unharmed. The youth of the boy was holding out gamely against Rory's superior ringmanship. Experience and youth equalized the fighting qualities of the two men and while the round of fast fighting lifted the galleries to their feet, neither man showed appreciable damage and the round was even, just as had been the first two.

Sheila was now thoroughly aroused and excited. The calling of blows meant nothing to her, for she did not understand the language of the prize ring but when the voice of the announcer rang out: "Campeau draws first blood with left jab," Sheila felt her heart jump but was quickly reassured when old Mrs. O'Shea put in quietly, "Rory always did bleed easily in the nose, even when he was a baby."

It was the end of the sixth round that Rory began to feel the pace. He had carried the fight to the other and had delivered as much punishment as he had taken, but he feared Campeau's quicker recovery due to youth.

"Take it careful, Rory," whispered Jimmy Tree as he and Reagan sponged him down. "No more chances now. You can go the twelve rounds easy and you've still got the punch that'll win, if you wait for it. Tire him out a bit and take it easy. He'll probably start in to finish you now. Let's hope he does. Just wait and shoot it home; and, don't waste a single one. If you haven't got it pointed, don't shoot! You're going fine and remember you can do only what you think you can do!"

The sixth proved unsatisfactory to the crowd. Campeau rushed his opponent, but skilful Rory easily avoided these onslaughts and forced Campeau to waste precious strength in efforts against the wily older man. Campeau deserved the round for sheer aggressiveness, but Rory walked to his chair with a smile and waved to a couple of newspaper writers who yelled good luck to him.

"That's the stuff, Rory," Reagan cried. "You're fresher now compared with him than you were at the end of the fourth. It's a win you'll get sure out of this."

"Now, for the lucky seventh," said Rory as he spat out the water and relaxed for those precious ten seconds that precede the bell.

Campeau was more wary this round. Each man felt out his opponent trying to judge the remaining strength and stamina in the other. And as the seconds passed in this skilful fencing Rory actually felt new vitality sweep into his body. Still he waited. He knew he must win by a knockout and he must be sure that the opening was made to order. Campeau advanced, there was an exchange of jabs and Rory sent his right to the jaw. It rocked Campeau and O'Shea followed it with his left. Campeau's body bent and he started to the floor but before his knees touched the canvas Rory shot his right again. It went home truly and Campeau was out, knocked unconscious without so much as a bruise to show where the blow had landed on his chin.

"One! Two!" the count came slowly across the air and into the little apartment where mother and father waited and a girl listened wide-eyed and confused. Here was suspense but by the time the call of "eight!" had sounded the cheers and the cries of Rory O'Shea's name left no doubt as to the winner.

"He won, mother, he won!" Old Mike shouted and even Old Tom Kildare cried, "Good boy, Rory, good boy!" "God Bless him," added his mother. Sheila alone was silent. She did not know what to do or what to say, but she was glad that Rory had won his fight.

The colorful scene as it was described by radio was not without its shock to Sheila. Brutal calls of the gallery fans for blood had sickened her. It seemed unfair for her, unmanly for men to howl for two of their own kind to try to slaughter each other. The business of the Great War had hardly touched at Kilmall, save for the half dozen out of the whole countryside who had gone into it, Ireland.

BUSH SAYS WANER IS PERFECT BALL PLAYER IN MAJORS

Lloyd Waner, Like His Brother, Paul, Climbs Into List of Leading Sluggers.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The perfect ball player, in the opinion of Manager Donie Bush of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is Lloyd Waner and Brother Lloyd, emulating Brother Paul, climbed today into the list of leading hitters of the National League. Lloyd's entrance gave the Pirates half of the first ten hitters in the circuit, with the "three musketeers" of the Pirates still perched securely on top. Lloyd was the first National Leaguer to reach the century mark in runs reaching 100 on Wednesday.

Frankie Frisch is making another threat at third place, being only two points behind Clyde Barnhart, the lowest of the Pittsburgh trio.

Alexander Going Good

The hero of last fall's world's series, Grover Cleveland Alexander, who was sold down the river by the Cubs to the Cardinals for the waiver price, is demonstrating that his efforts in landing the world's championship flag from St. Louis were not the final flash of form. "Big Pete," as his comrades of the Cubs used to call him, is within the first five fingers of the National League, in averages compiled today including Wednesday's games.

Alex has won 16 and lost 7 this year for the Cards, and only two pitchers top him in victories. Old Jessie Haines of the Cards with 19 wins is one of these and Charles Root of the Cubs is the other with 22.

Cy Williams' home run bat has been idle at the 23 mark for a fortnight, and meanwhile Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson have climbed up to 20.

Frisch, while waiting for one of the three leading Pirate clouters to slide down the ladder past him, was as active as usual on the paths, adding two more stolen bases to his string to reach 33.

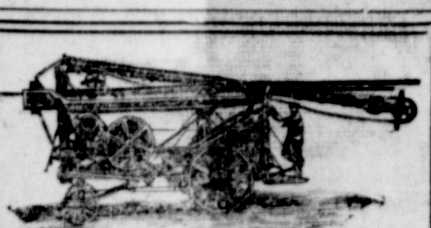

Heilman Headed Right

Leading National League hitters are: P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .384; Harris, Pittsburgh, .378; Barnhart, Pittsburgh, .353; Frisch, St. Louis, .351; Stephenson, Chicago, .344; Hornsby, New York, .343; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, .339; Trayner, Pittsburgh, .331; Hendrick, Brooklyn, .328.

The three time batting champion of the American league, Harry Heilman of Detroit, seems on his way to a fourth title. He is tied today for second place in the batting standings in games including Wednesday, with Columbia Lou Gehrig. Al Simmons of the Athletics still tops these two by fifteen points but Al has not played for a month now.

Swinging from the heels, to keep ahead of Babe Ruth in the home run race, Gehrig has dropped to 379 now, while Ruth is just twenty points lower. The Babe tied up the home run race Wednesday at 38, making his second homer in the Chicago White Sox series.

While the other batters are succumbing to shrinkage of the batting average, Tris Speaker is standing like a stonewall and the leaders have slid past him, all except three, so that Tris ranks fourth with his .363.

NEW 72 MODEL TWO-CAR DEMAND FOR CHRYSLER IS VERY BRISK

Bigger Engine, Increased Speed, Enhanced Beauty of Contour Are Announced.

Rarely unusual features of chassis and body are presented in the "Illustrious New '72", brilliant successor to the famous original "70", just announced by the Chrysler Sales Corporation and on display today at the salesrooms of Good and Wherley.

It is confidently predicted by Chrysler officials that the "72" will receive the most enthusiastic welcome ever accorded any creation of the company's designers and engineers.

The principal features of this remarkable new car include an entirely new, larger and more powerful engine mounted in rubber at both front and rear, and featuring a seven-bearing crankshaft which is counterweighted, similar to the crankshaft used with such phenomenal results in the Chrysler Imperial "80"; a longer chassis fitted with rubber shock insulators replacing metal spring shackles; and roomier and more handsome bodies.

Seven body styles are available, as follows: Roadster (with rumble seat), $1495; two-passenger coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; four-passenger coupe, $1595; close-coupled sedan, $1595; Royal sedan, $1595; Crown sedan, $1745; convertible coupe (with rumble seat), $1745. The chassis with cowl is priced at $1065.

In appearance the new "72" is an improvement even over the original Chrysler which so influenced automobile body design upon its introduction more than three years ago. The car is longer and the added length has opened the way for space engineers to increase the roominess of the bodies.

BUICK SPRINGS ARE COMFORTABLE

"Buick is showing the world the way to riding comfort, in its new models for 1928," said H. T. Jennings, of the Gettysburg Buick company. "Hydraulic shock absorbers, in conjunction with new and more flexible cantilever springs individually and scientifically designed for each of the Hupmobile Enjoys Steady Market For Open Models and Coupes, Despite Inroads.

Despite the unquestioned continued inroads of the enclosed family types of motor cars, automobile companies are finding a steady market for open models and coupes, if the experience of one representative builder may be accepted as an index.

This company, Hupmobile, devoted 16 per cent of its total 1926 domestic production to these types of cars. Its ratio on its eight cylinder chassis was even greater than the percentage for its six. Its production is running at about the same rate.

"Hupmobile probably has a greater ratio than any other producers in the high quality field," points out R. S. Cole, its general sales manager. "We initiated the two-car trend and have sponsored it continuously."

"The increase in the general public's purchasing power and the gradual advent of the two-car family makes it only natural that many two-sixteen Buicks, smooth the roughest roads, and unleash Buick's new high speeds without discommodating driver or passengers.

"Four Buick shock absorbers are standard equipment on every Buick for 1928. But they are not merely affixed to the car without reference to co-ordination with springs and body."

"Of importance, too, in making Buick for 1928 the world's most comfortable car, are the new shaped and tailored seats. Deep, resilient cushion springs underlie the thick upholstery, to complete the conquest of bumpy roads."

"Comfort had to receive consideration, in preparation of Buick for 1928, because Buicks go all over the world. Penetrating where the smooth concrete of America is unknown, Buick must deliver not only its accustomed speed, hill power, long life and general reliability, but a degree of comfort which will enable its owner to utilize this performance to the utmost, under all road conditions, without experiencing bumps or jolts at any speed."

car families prefer an open model or coupe for their second car. Many men, particularly, prefer an open car in seasonable weather. The style appearance of a roadster attracts them strongly to it. For those who prefer an all-season car as personal transportation, the coupe naturally is their choice. Both types afford the individual touch that the two-car owner wants in his personal car.

"Where the second car is primarily for the wife, the choice almost invariably is a coupe."

"The motor car market today comprises three distinct categories—the teachers.

The opening ceremony was performed by Cardinal Bourne. The new educational centre, which has been named St. Mary's college, will provide accommodation for 200 students.

Strawberry Hill at Twickenham was bought by Walpole in 1747. The interior decorations and enlargements by him are churchlike in appearance. Some of the mantelpieces are replicas of tombs. One is of inlaid marble, worth £300 even in the 18th century. One ceiling is an extraordinarily fine copy of that in Henry VII's Chapel in Westminster Abbey.

Announcing the Illustrious

NEW CHRYSLER 72

A Statement from Walter P. Chrysler:

In announcing the Illustrious New Chrysler "72," we are confident that our latest product is as great an advance over today's fine cars as was the famous "70" over the best of four years ago.

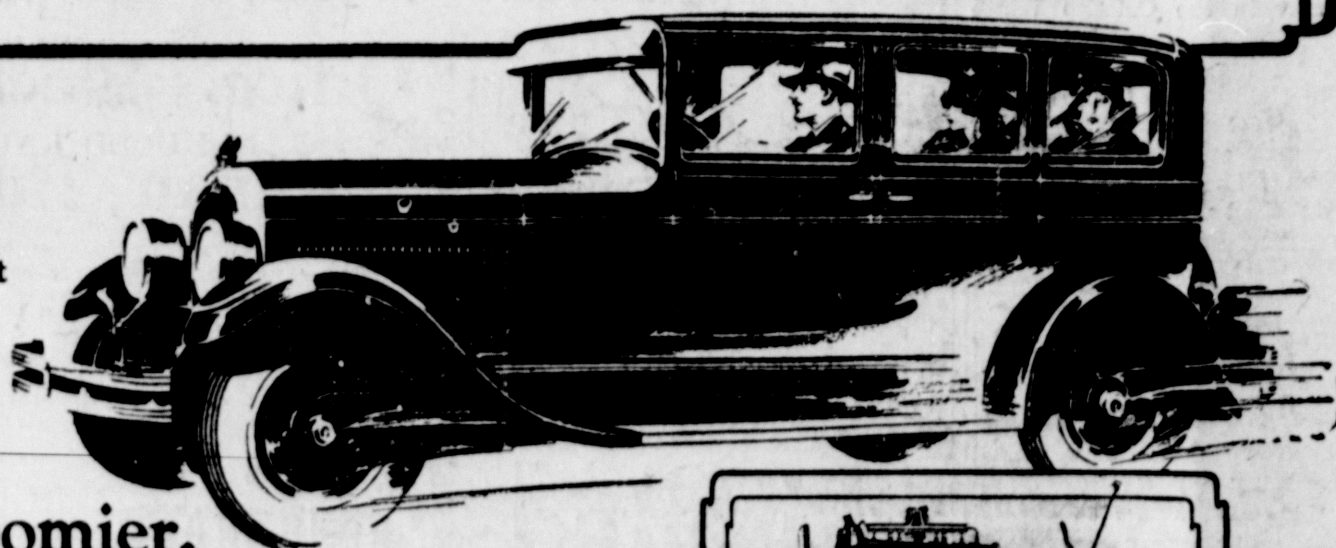

The New "72" is ultra modern—again setting new standards, establishing new results for the industry to follow. The New Chrysler "72" with the Great, New "62," the New "52," and the magnificent Imperial "80"—are Chrysler's covenant of faith with the public which has so generously demonstrated its faith in us.

Longer, Roomier, Faster, Handsomer

The Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—longer, roomier, faster and handsomer—but that tells only a touch of the "72" story.

For the first time, in a car costing less than $2000, the New "72" gives an engine of 75 horsepower, with counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft and rubber engine mountings to wipe out every last vestige of vibration.

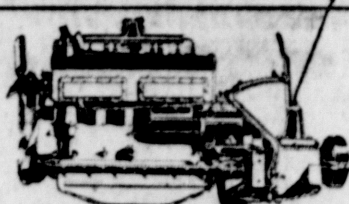

It gives you speed of 72 and more miles an hour, pick-up of 5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, hill-climbing ability that sweeps you up even mountain grades at constant acceleration.

It gives you rubber shock insulators, pioneered with such great success in the Chrysler Imperial "80." The spring ends are anchored in blocks of live rubber, eliminating wear, noise and the need for lubrication. These insulators, with the special Chrysler spring suspension result in riding smoothness hitherto unknown.

It gives you longer, more beautiful bodies, tastefully appointed, luxuriously roomy, and fully equipped with saddle-spring seat-cushions and adjustable steering wheel to give you the utmost in comfort.

Test it to your satisfaction in every conceivable manner. Only then can you appreciate just how much wider is the gap which the Chrysler "72" has placed between itself and all others in this class.

"Red-Head" Sets Chrysler Performance Farther Ahead

For those who seek supreme performance—speed, pick-up, hill-climbing ability, going beyond even the qualities of its standard sixes—Chrysler furnishes its new "Red-Head" high compression engine. . . . The New Chrysler "Red-Head" will be regular equipment on the Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Roadster, giving even greater speed and acceleration than the standards announced. It is also available for all other "72" body models.

North Dakota Woman Able To Dispose of Cars and Care For Household Duties.

Selling automobiles, generally regarded as a business restricted exclusively to men, is the latest field to be invaded successfully by a woman, who has even shown her ability to outshine her masculine competitors.

Mrs. Pearl Bollig, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, the first saleswoman in the United States to achieve the honor of membership in the Chevrolet Motor Company's 72-Car Club, a star salesman's organization, has just been awarded her second year's membership, marking her as one of the foremost sales experts among the company's 14,000 salesmen. This record means that since August 1, 1926, Mrs. Bollig sold 72 Chevrolet cars, an average of six cars monthly, and has duplicated her sales performance of the year previous, which first gave her a much-coveted place in the honor organization of the company.

Occupied with the manifold cares of a housewife, with two growing boys to look after, Mrs. Bollig's career as a Chevrolet saleswoman began with the purchase of a Chevrolet sedan for her personal use, back in 1923.

"I liked the car, and so did my friends," said Mrs. Bollig. "Then I thought I should be able to please others with the car, because of my own pleasure in its ownership. I applied for a position with a Sioux Falls Chevrolet dealer and assisted in the Chevrolet booth during the auto show that year. I interested many school

Towns Have Novel Signs For Motorists

Berlin.—(AP)—Novel detour and other auto signs clearly visible at night have been installed in a number of German cities.

These signs have no lights of their own but reflect the light of the approaching car. The device has the great advantage of cheapness. It has even been extended to milestones which flare up for a moment as the car's lights strike them in speeding by.

Teachers, who found it a novel experience probably, to learn how to drive a car from another woman, and many business men bought cars from me. This was the first sales experience I have ever had and my enthusiasm for selling continued."

OAKLAND LEADS WITH FEATURES

Many Noteworthy Engineering Issues Contribute to Performance and Long Life.

Pontiac, Mich.—An entirely new motor car which really is not new at all—this is the paradox presented by the new Oakland All-American Six, in which the American public is finding so much of interest today. For while the All-American Six is new to the public, both in point of engineering advances and in the brilliant performance to which they contribute, it is old in point of service. Having undergone hundreds of thousands of test miles at the General Motors Proving Ground, Oakland engineers knew its capabilities thoroughly, long before it was publicly announced.

The Oakland All-American Six, which the public is admiring and buying today, illustrates aptly the evolution of a motor car. Tentative models of the All-American Six, designed to provide the style, performance and reliability demanded by the American people, were familiar sights on the roads of the Proving Grounds many months ago.

Here, in actual operation, Oakland engineers learned exactly what might be expected of the car in the hands of the public. The tests to which it was subjected were far more rigid than any the public ever could impose. Each test car underwent thousands and thousands of miles of grueling punishment on heartbreaking grades, on rough and rutty dirt track, on brick roads, and on the speedway, demonstrating its possession of those qualities which the public was known to want.

LEARNS TO DRIVE AT 87

Belfast, Me.—Isaiah W. Cross of this city, at the age of 87, has learned to operate an automobile. After a few trips about the state, he made, without mishap, or inconvenience, a run of 256 miles to Provincetown, Massachusetts, and return—just to see what changes man and Nature have made on Cape Cod since he was there seventy-two years ago.

Improve your motor's performance in the 5 definite ways essential to speed, ease and safety in modern motoring.

TRAFFIC TYDOL takes the tangle out of traffic

CARS tied in knots at every busy cross-road. Cars in seething streams on every open highway. Cars packed like sardines on every city street. That's present-day traffic!—the biggest problem in modern motoring, a problem you are forced to face each time you drive your car.

To meet that problem a new gasoline has been created, Traffic Tydol. In 5 important ways it improves your motor's performance and makes driving quicker, easier and safer.

In impartial stop-watch tests, Traffic Tydol proved itself superior to seven other gasolines. Already it has been adopted by leading motor-transportation companies in the country. And now millions of car-owners use the new Traffic Tydol and endorse it as no other gasoline has ever been endorsed.

Those facts should convince you of the importance of trying this new gasoline in your own motor. Stop today at a black and orange Tydol pump. Fill up with Traffic Tydol. Learn why this gasoline has so quickly won motor-transportation experts and the car-owning public.

Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York City.

The New TRAFFIC TYDOL means

1. FASTER STARTING
2. QUICKER PICK-UP
3. MORE POWER
4. LESS GEAR-SHIFTING
5. REDUCED KNOCKING

Above facts proved in impartial stop-watch tests. New Traffic-Tydol competed with seven other gasolines. Tests made by 16 professional demonstrators, in following cars, picked at random:

Ford, Whippet, Chevrolet, Dodge, Chrysler, Star "6", Pontiac, Nash, Hupmobile "6", Reo, Locomobile "8", Willys-Knight, Franklin, Chandler, Buick, Studebaker.

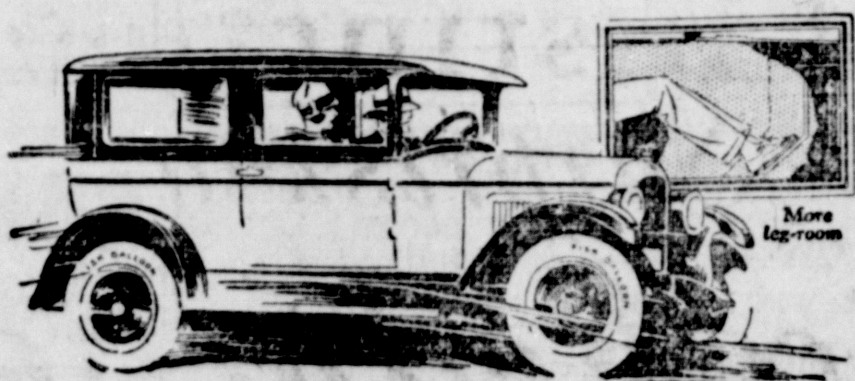

New Traffic-Tydol earned 66 out of possible 70 first places in tests made on 5 separate points. Unanimous choice of all 16 demonstrators as best all around gasoline.

Signed, photostatic records of above tests on file in offices of Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York City.

THE SEALED PUMP PROTECTS YOU

The Sealed pump, with which Tide Water defeated gasoline substitution a year and a half ago, is still rigidly in force. Nothing but Tydol can go into a Tydol dealer's tank. Nothing but Tydol can come from a Tydol pump.

Overwhelming Proof Now backs up every Whippet claim

120,000 owners have tested Whippet performance in 400,000,000 miles of driving

It is important to remember Whippet's proved superiority at this time. Such characteristic advantages as greater gasoline mileage, 4-wheel brakes, low center of gravity, increased roominess and higher speed, that so definitely keep the Whippet far in the lead in light car design, have been put to the test of more than 400,000,000 miles of driving by Whippet owners.

College Boys' Fine Showing.—"That Gettysburg college men made a better showing in the appointments of commissioned officers at Fort Niagara than the students from any other school of the same size was indicated from rough comparisons," says the Harrisburg Patriot, which continues: "The officers credit this showing to the work of Major Frank L. Graham, U. S. A., who has been in charge of the training in military science and tactics at the school during the past year."

To Larger Field.—Daniel A. Skelly, Jr., for the past five years engaged in newspaper work in Gettysburg, leaves Sunday to become a member of the editorial staff of the Elizabeth Journal, Elizabeth, New Jersey. Mr. Skelly has shown marked ability in his work here and will have opportunity to rise in the larger field which he has chosen. Among the staff of the "Journal" is Dean Gable, associate managing editor, a graduate of Gettysburg college, and formerly engaged in newspaper work in Gettysburg.

Scott—Horner Home Wedding.—The home of Mrs. Kate M. Horner, of Knoxlyn, was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday evening at half past seven o'clock when Miss Margaret C. R. Horner became the bride of J. Hugh Scott. The single ring service of the Presbyterian church was used and the ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Woods.

The Horner home was prettily decorated in a color scheme of pink and green. Five little ribbon bearers preceded the bridal party which entered the parlor as M. K. Eckert played the Lohengrin March. They were Mary Louise Scott, Elizabeth Scott and Janet Scott, all of Gettysburg; Katherine Main, of Shippensburg, and Jane Knox, of Wilmington, Delaware. They were followed by two little girls carrying baskets of cut flowers, Anna Scott and Gertrude Main.

The bridesmaid was Miss Jean Knox, of Germantown. She wore a gown of white net and carried pink aster. The bride entered with her uncle, S. M. Knox, of Germantown. She wore a gown of white beaded georgette and carried a bouquet of roses. Mr. Scott was attended by his best man, J. Byron Horner.

After the wedding an informal reception was held and during the evening the newly married couple left for a brief wedding trip. They will make their home at Knoxlyn.

Vandal Batters Bronze Figures on Battlefield.—Using an instrument, a vandal sometime between 9 o'clock Saturday morning and the same hour today struck two logs from horses in the bronze plate on the Wells monument in the rear of Big Round Top.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT is it that is behind this eternal anticipation, this hope, this dream, that is throwing out its questions: "Any mail for me?"

The hunter in the deep forest, the boy at school, the friend a thousand miles away, more or less vacationing, the loved one across the seas, the soldier behind the firing line, the salesman on the road, the cowboy out on the plains, the explorer hidden away from the last edge of civilization—how each looks forward to the time when the mail comes in.

How the business man wonders on his way to his office "just what the mail will be."

How the mother anxiously awaits the whistle of the postman, or the ring of the doorbell, to learn whether or not the loved one's letter came.

How the very heavens of the soul grow suddenly star-bedecked, and the gloom of the day becomes flooded with the rays of the sun—just the minute that the letter awaited actually arrives.

Some of us dislike very much to write letters. But who is there who doesn't thrill at receiving them? Wendell Phillips once said that one form of slavery was to be "chained to the ink-pot."

Nevertheless, I believe that there are few who do not welcome letters. They come as oil upon troubled waters so often. They change days. They lift dark clouds. They teach us all the better part of striving on and on.

In the old days, when all countries were new and the modern methods of transportation were not what they are today, it took weeks and months to exchange a letter between distances that today mean but an overnight journey. By air mail a letter can leave New York and be delivered in San Francisco in less than three days! And before many years, mail will cross the ocean in less than this time.

But, after all, it's the pleasure and happiness that the letter itself brings that counts. Why should anyone write and mail an unkind, an unhappy letter?

mutilating it so badly that an entirely new cast will have to be made.

The Wells monument was erected in 1913 by the state of Vermont. It was dedicated at the time of the Fiftieth anniversary and has since earned the most flattering comments, both for the large statue and the bronze plate on its base.

The National Park commission will make every effort to run down the guilty person, but at the present time has apparently nothing on which to base any clues.

The damage to the seven granite monuments which aroused so great public indignation was done some months before the Fiftieth Anniversary. They were all temporarily repaired before the celebration and later all damaged parts were replaced.

WHILE THESE THINGS I CAN SEE

While I can see these things,
A child's bright, flashing eyes,
Stars in the summer's skies,
The sea-gull's perfect wings
Riding with ease the gale,
My faith shall never fail!

A daisy in the field
This morning smiled at me.
Thought I: "Can I now see
This miracle and yield
My faith to scornful doubt,
Blotting such wonders out?"

And all the morning long
Twitttered the birds and thrilled
Until the air seemed filled
With wild tumultuous song.
Out of the field there rose
Two living things called crows!

Life everywhere about
And beauty lavished here,
Repeated year by year
And still men scoff and doubt
And say there is no sign
Of love and power divine!

SEE CHESTNUT TREES EXTINCT IN 12 YEARS

Forest Pathologists Say
Blight Will Kill
Off This Tree In
The United States.

Washington—Twelve years hence, forest pathologists say, native American chestnut will be extinct, the victim of an Asiatic fungus.

Back in the "eighties," experts have reckoned, the parasitic growth came to the United States on imported nursery stock. When, in 1904, it was discovered on trees in the New York zoological park, chestnut blight, or bark disease, had swept south to the Potomac, and west to the Appalachians.

Spores were spread by shipments of lumber, by migrating birds, small animals, wind-blown insects, and by the air itself. Attacking bark wounds, tiny yellow, orange or red-brown pustules and great gaping cankers of white or buff-colored fungus "fans" girdled both tree trunk and limb, often causing death in one wet season by cutting off all flow of sap.

Pennsylvania sensed the danger when denuded branches and dry, barren limbs thrust themselves skyward through a Chestnut Tree Blight Commission, the state sought to cut out infected growth. Surmounting the momentary obstacle, infection drove north to Lake Ontario, and diagonally back to the Carolinas. Today there is scarcely a fungus-free tree in the whole area. Conservative estimate places damage at more than $100,000,000.

Completing the march of destruction, blight has pushed over the mountains into Southeastern Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, last stronghold of a once mighty stand. It is too late for defense, and by 1940, observers predict, every chestnut in the country will be dead or diseased.

There is one hope. Congress has staked $10,000 on the promise it holds, and has sent R. K. Beattie, of the forestry service, to investigate its ramifications. He is expected to find,

Hipperty, hipperty, hipperty hop,
And clipperty, clipperty, clipperty clap!
Went Little Jack Rabbit on his legs
Up to the Farm for a dozen eggs.

"Here are 13 for good measure," clucked H-nny Jenny, the pretty white hen. For if you crack the 13th on your way home, you will still have a dozen!

"Oh, I'll be careful," answered the bunny boy, and off for home he hopped with the little basket held tightly in his paw. But, Oh dearest me! Just then who should peak out of a crack in the Old Stone Fence but Mr. Wicked Weasel. Quick as a wind, the bright little rabbit threw the 13th egg right in the face of that wicked old furry robber, and while he was wiping his eyes with his pocket handkerchief, the bunny boy hurried home faster than ever.

"Well, that 13th egg was a mighty lucky one for us, Bunnikins," laughed Lady Love, his pretty rabbit mother.
"Grandmother Magpie has always maintained that number 13 is unlucky, but I shall tell her the first chance I get what has happened this morning.
Maybe she'll change her opinion after this," and hopping over to the cupboard the little lady rabbit gave a lollypop to her little bunny boy.

Pretty soon he hopped out to the barn to look at the pigeons, and while he was feeding them, the Old Red Rooster strutted up the path through the bramble bushes to say that Uncle Lucky wished to see him.
"Tell him I'll be over just as soon as I've brought in the wood for mother and locked the cellar door. There's no telling about Danny Fox; he might come along any time, you know."

By and by, not so very long, just a little while, having finished his morning chores, the little rabbit kissed Lady Love goodby and hopped away, clipperty clip, to Rabbitville, where his Uncle, Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot, lived in a little red-shingled house on the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Carrot Street. But, Oh dear me! He had gone maybe only 500 hops, when it began to rain. Opening his knapsack, the little bunny took out his umbrella and rubber boots. But, Oh dear me!
again. He had hardly gone 300 hops when dreadful Mrs. Wildcat jumped out of a tree, right down on the top of the umbrella.

"Where are you going alone in the rain?
Don't let your old parasol slip.

somewhere in Asia, a blight immune chestnut. The disease is less potent on foreign stock.

Meantime, experiment goes forward on the so-called "hairy" chestnut, indigenous to China. Its stature is dwarfish, but at Bell Maryland, the government is trying to develop a hybrid with the blight-resistant properties of the Orient and the nut and timber qualities of American species.

Dr. Haven Metcalf, chief U. S.
Forest Pathologist, expresses the opinion that such a combination has been accomplished.

The American chestnut had no rival. Sturdy and erect, it often grew 140 feet tall. It offered no problem of reforestation.

"I don't know where we shall turn for tannin," Dr. Metcalf says. "For years there will be no substitute for chestnut, in any of its uses. We'll take whatever we can get until the market finally settles down to some one type, identity of which now is obscure."

"Oh, dearest me," thought the poor, frightened little bunny boy. "How can I ever hold up the umbrella?"

same, although it was mighty hard work, let me tell you.

He knew if he should stub his toe
And let that wildcat drop
Upon the ground he'd never live
To take another hop.

So on he went, balancing the um-

the rainy wood. Dear, dear me! Poor

PRESBYTERIANS
SPEND 63 MILLION

Communicant Members Largest Ever Enrolled, But Net Increase Is Small, Report.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The largest sum in the history of the Presbyterian church, nearly $63,000,000, was expended in the interests of its national and world-wide enterprises, during the fiscal year just closed, according to the yearly review of denominational statistics made public Friday by Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of the general assembly.

Doctor Mudge also reported the 1,927,268 communicant members as the largest official Presbyterian census ever enrolled, but pointed out that the net increase in membership of 18,157 for the year was the smallest annual gain in many years. A record of 67,060 suspensions, coupled with issuance of 54,637 letters of dismissal and 22,182 deaths among members reacted against accession of 90,416 new communicant members, 64,713 new members on certificates from oth-

Timely News Items Of Agricultural Extension Service

Farmers should use the best packing material and pay more attention to the grade of eggs in the case to secure the highest possible price for their eggs, the state bureau of markets suggested today.

Farmers who ship eggs by the case are suffering a heavy loss because of their own carelessness, the bureau said. A recent examination of a large number of shipments at four points in the northern section of the state revealed an average damage of 7.5 eggs per case when the eggs were delivered to the station for shipment. All except one of the cases had old packing material; 27 per cent had dirty eggs, 16 per cent had long eggs standing above the fillers and 2 cases had duck eggs present. The cases varied in weight from 52 to 62 pounds and the individual eggs ranged from 15 to 32 ounces per dozen. Only three cases contained graded eggs.

With a large percentage of the commercial apple crop of the state packed according to the standard grades and inspected at shipping points by representatives of the state department of agriculture, there is no reason why the consumer should have difficulty in purchasing graded Pennsylvania apples if they desire to do so, the state department of agriculture announced today in its weekly news bulletin. Four different grades of apples have been established and they are the same as the U. S. standards which are in use all over the country.

Housewives desiring apples of good, dependable, uniform quality should ask for "U. S. No. 1" which includes fruit of good quality practically free from damage and with a varying amount of color. Apples of even higher grade and color are labelled "U. S. Fancy." The "U. S. Commercial" grade is the same as "U. S. No. 1" except that no color is required. "U. S. No. 2" grade is described as satisfactory for cooking.

Twenty-seven agents in the bureau of foods and chemistry ordered eighty prosecutions during July in 28 different counties for the violation of food and other laws governing the sale of food products and farm supplies, it was announced by the state department of agriculture today.

One of more violations were discovered in the sale of cake, jelly roll, sandwiches, noodles, canned cherries, codfish, butter, soft drinks, lemonade, cranberry, meat, eggs, milk, cream, weiners, sausage, vinegar, fertilizer, feeding stuffs and turpentine.

Prosecutions were made in the following counties: Allegheny, Beaver, Berks, Blair, Butler, Center, Chester, Clarion, Crawford, Cumberland, Delaware, Fayette, Indiana, Juniata, Lancaster, Lawrence, Luzerne, Lycoming, McKean, Mifflin, Philadelphia, Tioga, Venango, Washington, Wayne and Westmoreland.

GARLIC IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal.—Garlic does not screen well, but it has its uses in Hollywood. Mixed with bran and ground meat it is fed to malmutes and huskies working in films of the far north. Vegetarians say it prevents ailments likely to affect dogs shipped down to a place as warm as Hollywood.

Helen Accepts a Frock From Paris

HELEN greatly admires the earlier lady of that name whose face, she understands, haunched a thousand ships, and consequently she wears a Wall-of-Troy outline down the front closing of her frock. And though Helen's brother has almost convinced her that her face alone would scarcely set off one of the lightest canoes, Helen wisely believes that beauty is largely a matter of smartness in dress. And surely nothing could be more attractive and conducive to launching than this frock of silk, cotton, linen or flannel with the bindings of collar, cuffs and closing made in a contrasting color. From the smart saddle shoulders two inverted plaits run down the front to the not-so-distant hem. A new and very simply made type of one-piece French pantie completes the costume.

RAISE RIVER TO RESCUE EXPLORER

Shell Mound, Tenn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Nick-a-Jack cave continued to hold the secret of the disappearance of Lawrence S. Ashley, geologist and cave explorer, who went into the cave Monday on an exploration trip.

With eight searching parties turned back after penetrating the subterranean passage for a few miles, workers planned to rebuild a small dam near the cave mouth in an effort to force an underground river to navigable proportions.

The stream, from twenty-five to sixty feet wide and varying from ten feet to a few inches deep, was believed Friday night to be the possible means of locating Ashley. With the river swelled to navigable depth, the party planned to penetrate the cave, dragging the clear stream as they go.

A rescue party of five, led by G. W. Lewis, Friday discovered a number of caverns several miles back in the cave, but were unable to reach them by boat. It is thought that Ashley, the small supply of carbide for his lamp exhausted, might have wandered into one of these in the darkness and was unable to retrace his path.

"If Lawrence Ashley is not found by Sunday I will take a searching party and attempt to go through the mountain," Francis H. Davis, Chattanooga radio operator and one of Ashley's closest friends, said Friday night.

C. E. PITZER IS IN THE RACE TO STAY

Assures His Friends That He Has Not Withdrawn As a Candidate For Treasurer.

Despite rumors to the contrary, C. E. Pitzer, York street butcher, today emphatically stated that he has not withdrawn as a Republican candidate for County Treasurer, and that he does not intend to do so.

"Quite a few of my friends misinterpreted a statement in The Gettysburg Times, that my name had been omitted from the list of Republican candidates, as meaning that I had withdrawn from the race for county treasurer," Mr. Pitzer said. "I have assured all of them that I haven't the slightest intention of withdrawing from the contest. Many friends have assured me their support, and I promise them that they will have an opportunity to vote for me at the primary, September 20."
